I first met you in September 2019 after a year of friendship on the telephone. When you walk into the house you came to the kitchen, washed your hands, and took over the task of completing the sorrel, and thus the name "Sorrel Lady" was given by an English man Lincoln Fisher. Mommy's party was a success because you and Michelle helped in the kitchen. Even in pain, you remained with me until everyone was served and the kitchen was cleaned. Even in your sickness, you served others. Those special moments we spent encouraging each other through our pain and praying for others will always make me smile. Selfishly, I want you back because you were going to take me on my first cruise. Cherry who am I going to call when the pain is to rock my body or to talk about Western Union exchange. Cherry, you brought light so bright, so great into every person you met and you made this world a better place. I will forever cherish your memories.
