As a little boy, Bill loved to search for frogs and salamanders. Dad sometimes had to search the nearest swamp for him when he didn't respond to calls to come home for dinner.

He loved turtles, too. He and Dad built a little pond for Billy's turtles in the backyard in Groton.

Anonymous sent a Sentiments of Serenity Spray to the Bowen family.

I remember Bill coming to visit our Dad in Massachusetts and playing golf together and with my son Brian. He took Dad out shopping to get the biggest tv available then, the better to watch golf together. Then he decided Dad's computer just wasn't fancy enough, so off they went, like a pair of gleeful kids, to buy the newest, fanciest mac. It was always wonderful to see him.
